KEYSTONE STATE FOOTBALL LEAGUE

Two seasons of competition have produced abundant and clear benefits for our respective member schools, most notably the recognition that the switch to 8-player football has allowed our schools to continue offering an authentic high school football experience.

The Keystone State Football League (KSFL) is engaged in a strategic plan for expansion, seeking schools with a comparable vision and a commitment that aligns with our league approach—providing opportunities for students to participate and contribute to an exciting, engaging brand of football.

This prospectus provides an honest portrayal of the benefits that we have experienced, here for your referral.

Our member schools have worked collaboratively to adopt fair standards and expectations for our league. We encourage schools to evaluate their current status and to closely examine what participation in the KSFL can offer, as we continue to vault 8-player football forward.

KEYSTONE STATE FOOTBALL LEAGUE

The Move To 8-Player Football

- Founding principles that provide a model sports conference.
- Higher participation rates, including first time players, in each program.
- Student and family enthusiasm and support for the sport has steadily grown.
- Lower injury rates, even with more first year players.
- Unparalleled culture of sportsmanship and camaraderie among league teams and athletes.
- Increased participation by athletes from other sports.
- College recruiting opportunities have resulted in players advancing to NCAA Division I, Division II, and Division III colleges.
- No regular season forfeits as a result of the need for fewer players to safely play the game.
